

KIDS ART LOLLY POT

- Any size terracotta pot
- Black Paint (or other colour)
- Sponge Brushes
- Metallic Sharpie (or other permanent marker)
- Cellophane lolly bags, lollies and ribbon

First you will want to paint your terra cotta pots black. You can choose any colour but we thought the gold metallic markers showed up best on the dark black. You can either help your kids do this part or let them do it depending on their age.

Once the paint has dried let your kids draw their family. We found laying the terracotta pot on the table and having an adult hold the pot in place while they draw was easiest. You can also turn the pot if they start running out of space. If they make a mistake and aren't happy with it just paint another coat (you may need two) of black on top and let them try again. We may have had to do that once or twice. But all in all it's the imperfections that make this a treasure.

We decided to fill our pots with lollies but you could also fill it with a plant, work gloves and a gift card, small tools and other things Dads love.
